Hansen led the group through the CenterPointe Campus for Health and Wellbeing. He emphasized that services provided at the facility will benefit many in the community, including those in the immediate neighborhood who may be underserved in the area of medical care.

Points of interest along the tour included the serenity garden, health clinic space, including exam and consultation rooms and a pharmacy, staff areas, client apartments and community meeting space.

Hansen said the final project cost will be around $27,000,000 and noted it would not have been possible without the County's support and the generosity of the community.

The meeting ended at 12:05 p.m.
