

RSVP TODAY!!!

February 16th, 2022
11:30-12:30
via Zoom

HOW WE THINK ABOUT "INCLUSIVE LEADERSHIP"

Presentation By: Dr. L.J. McElravy

Program Objectives:

✓
Identify the roles
in which you are
"seen" as leaders
by others

✓
Describe the role of diverse
leadership beliefs
for creating an inclusive
workplace

✓
Identify personal implicit leadership
theories

Book Recommendations:

✓ The Person You Mean to Be
by: Dolly Chugh

✓ Inclusify
by: Stefanie K. Johnson

✓ An Everyone Culture
by: Robert Kegan and Lisa Laskow Lahey

About Dr. L.J. McElravy

Dr. L.J. McElravy is an Associate Professor of Leadership in the Department of Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication, and Associate Dean of Graduate Student Professional Development within Graduate Studies. Dr. McElravy's research and extension efforts are focused on leadership identity development, leadership assessment, leadership training, and leadership in teams. Dr. McElravy's four years in the U.S. Army helped shape his beliefs about leadership being a truly developmental process that can greatly impact the success of teams, organizations, and communities.